ABOUT INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

GENERAL

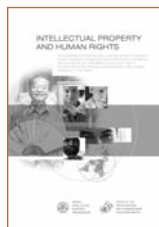

WIPO Intellectual Property Handbook: Policy, Law and Use – Second edition – Published in 2004

This is a general reference work on all aspects of intellectual property, including international treaties and conventions, analyses of all fields of intellectual property, its administration, enforcement and teaching, technological and legal developments, and WIPO's work in its Member States. New material now covers today's issues including electronic commerce, biotechnology, traditional knowledge and management of copyright and related rights and WIPO's new vision and approaches to meet new challenges with a widening circle of partners. Can be used as a key reference work by creators, innovators, intellectual property lawyers, government officials, university teachers and students.

Intellectual Property: A Power Tool for Economic Growth – By Kamil Idris – Published in 2003

This publication seeks to demystify intellectual property and to explain the whys and wherefores of the subject – unlike many other IP texts that concentrate on the “what.” Its message is that intellectual property is a power tool for economic development and wealth creation that is not yet being used to optimal effect in all countries, particularly in the developing world. It is a practical guide to using those intangible assets – such as knowledge, information, creativity and inventiveness – that are rapidly replacing traditional and tangible assets – such as land, labor and capital – as the driving forces of economic health and well-being.

The Enforcement of Intellectual Property Rights: A Case Book – By LTC Harms – Published in 2005

With this publication, WIPO and the author aim at making available for judges and lawyers a valuable tool for the handling of intellectual property cases in countries with the common law tradition, particularly where precedent in the intellectual property domain is rare. To that effect, the case book, prepared by the Honorable Mr. Justice Louis Harms, Judge of Appeal, Supreme Court of South Africa, analyzes carefully selected court decisions. These decisions are drawn from various countries, in particular those with the common law tradition. The extracts from the decisions and accompanying comments are illustrating the different areas of intellectual property law, with an emphasis on matters that typically arise in connection with civil and criminal proceedings involving intellectual property rights.

TRADITIONAL KNOWLEDGE

Intellectual Property Needs and Expectations of Traditional Knowledge Holders – Published in 2001

This Report presents information compiled by WIPO from nine fact-finding missions conducted in 1998 and 1999 on the intellectual property needs and expectations of holders of traditional knowledge. The purpose of the Report is to provide information to WIPO Member States, holders of traditional knowledge, including indigenous peoples, the private sector, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations, academic and research institutions and other interested parties, on the intellectual property needs and expectations of traditional knowledge holders expressed to WIPO during the fact-finding missions.

WIPO-UNEP Study on the Role of Intellectual Property Rights in the Sharing of Benefits arising from the Use of Biological Resources and Associated Traditional Knowledge – Study no. 4 – By Professor Anil K. Gupta – Published in 2004

Jointly produced by the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) and the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP)

This publication is part of a series of studies dealing with intellectual property and genetic resources, traditional knowledge and traditional cultural expressions/folklore. It reflects years of cooperation between the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) and the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) to ensure that environmental policy and intellectual property policy are developed in a coordinated and mutually supportive manner. It is intended to identify and explore the role of intellectual property rights in the sharing of benefits arising from the use of biological resources and associated traditional knowledge, which is well illustrated by three case studies in Nigeria, Mali and India in the field of traditional medicine and agriculture. The study was prepared by the coordinator of the Honeybee Network, an association of 25,000 grassroot innovators and traditional knowledge holders in 75 countries, Professor Anil K. Gupta.

Minding Culture: Case Studies on Intellectual Property and Traditional Cultural Expressions – Study no. 1

By Terri Janke

Minding Culture gives actual examples of how industrial designs, copyright and trademarks have been used by indigenous Australian communities to protect and promote their artworks, cultures and identities, as well as their economic interests. The case studies point out where traditional communities found existing systems useful and where they were found inadequate. The studies convey the suggestions of these communities for policy and practical measures that could improve the protection of traditional cultural expressions by intellectual property. The case studies provide traditional communities, as well as policy makers, legislators and other stakeholders, with realistic, empirically-based options and new ideas for future policy development.

Consolidated Analysis of the Legal Protection of Traditional Cultural Expressions/Expressions of Folklore – Background Paper no. 1 – Published in 2004

This publication is part of a series of background papers prepared by the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) dealing with IP issues in relation to genetic resources, TK, and TCEs/folklore. It is intended to provide a comprehensive analysis of the policy issues that arise in the debate over improved IP protection of TCEs/folklore, as an information resource for policy makers, negotiators, legislators, indigenous and traditional communities, users of TCEs/folklore, researchers and others interested in exploring these issues in detail. A more succinct introduction to the subject is provided in the WIPO booklet "Intellectual Property and Traditional Cultural Expressions/Folklore."

WIPO Technical Study on Patent Disclosure Requirements Related to Genetic Resources and Traditional Knowledge – Study no. 3 – Published in 2004

The WIPO Technical Study on Patent Disclosure Requirements Related to Genetic Resources and Traditional Knowledge concerns requirements in patent law systems to disclose information about genetic resources and traditional knowledge relevant to patented inventions. It was prepared by WIPO as part of the work program of the Intergovernmental Committee on Intellectual Property and Genetic Resources, Traditional Knowledge and Folklore. The immediate context for this study was a request of the Conference of the Parties (COP) to the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD) at its sixth meeting in The Hague from April 7 to 19, 2002 (Decision VI/24C). The preparation of the study was based on responses to a questionnaire circulated to the Member States of WIPO. The Technical Study was made available to the seventh meeting of the COP in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, from February 9 to 20, 2004, as document UNEP/CBD/COP/7/INF/17.

The Use of Intellectual Property as a Tool for Economic Growth in the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN) Region – Published in 2004

WIPO Study on The Use of IP as a Tool for Economic Growth in the ASEAN (Association of South East Asian Nations) region: A survey and assessment of the current policies and practices in ASEAN that impact on the development, accumulation and use of IP as an economic asset, in particular policies designed to promote the development of human capital and associated IP (e.g. on education, R&D, science and technology, trade and investment) A welcome finding of the study is that the ASEAN countries are already in the process of creating, by means of multi-layered policies and practices, the economic, educational, organizational and institutional infrastructure that supports and makes possible the dynamic use of IP for economic development. The study makes recommendations on areas where future work and WIPO-ASEAN cooperation can be further intensified.

Socio-Economic Benefits of Intellectual Property Protection in Developing Countries – By Shahid Alikhan Published in 2000

This publication provides a comprehensive overview of issues dealing with the impact that intellectual property rights have on various facets of human progress. It seeks to clarify the role of intellectual property in spurring social, cultural, technological and economic development and its importance to industry, business and the public at large. In addition to the socio-economic value of intellectual property protection for developing countries, the publication highlights the importance of modernizing and strengthening intellectual property systems. Other issues addressed include questions relating to electronic commerce and the protection of folklore, traditional knowledge, biodiversity and biotechnology. The book is authored by Mr. Shahid Alikhan, a leading Indian intellectual property expert and former Deputy Director General of WIPO.

La Propiedad Intelectual en las Pequeñas y Medianas Empresas: el Caso Argentino – Published in 2005

The study analyses the use made by the enterprise sector of the different mechanisms offered by the intellectual property rights system and, in particular, by small and medium-sized enterprises in Argentina. The study concerns the analysis of the enterprise competitive scope, its link to the national innovation system and the policies and programmes designed and implemented to favour the competitiveness levels through the promotion of innovation and creativity activities, and the use of the intellectual property system. A central objective of the study is to identify the main barriers that can prevent or obstruct the effective use of intellectual property rights so as to provide the necessary elements for policy-making in this area. The study also includes a quantitative analysis on the use of the system as well as actual case studies of intellectual property rights use on the part of small and medium-sized Argentine enterprises.

LICENSING

Exchanging Value – Negotiating Technology Licensing Agreements: A Training Manual – Published in 2005

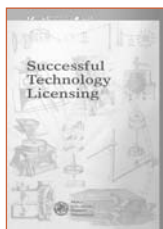

The Guide is designed to address the practical business needs and concerns of non-specialists who are required to deal with 'licensing in' or 'licensing out' technology, be it directly or indirectly. The Manual focuses on the process of due diligence while preparing for negotiations, and steps involved in actual negotiation, acquisition and transfer, through licensing agreements, of technologies protected by patent and trade secrets. It provides guidance on negotiating techniques for licensing contracts and explains in clear and concise terms a number of basic rules, common issues and legal and financial concerns associated with the negotiating process, and illustrates these with a very large number of examples. It also includes outline of a program schedule and practical guidelines for creating and managing teams/groups for conducting mock negotiations during a five-day practical workshop on negotiating technology licenses.

Successful Technology Licensing – Published in 2004

This practical guide for business persons, researchers and lawyers gives the basics of how to prepare for and conduct a technology license negotiation. It includes an explanation of how to succeed in licensing, a step by step approach for preparing for licensing, as well as a description of the "four clusters" of key terms in a licensing agreement and a form term sheet to be used as a tool for preparation. This guide can be used to train trainers in connection with WIPO's Successful Technology Licensing training tool kit.

INDUSTRIAL PROPERTY

GENERAL

Treaties and Conventions

Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property of March 20, 1883, as revised at Brussels on December 14, 1900, at Washington on June 2, 1911, at the Hague on November 6, 1925, at London on June 2, 1934, at Lisbon on October 31, 1958, and at Stockholm on July 14, 1967 and as amended on September 28, 1979.

The Convention applies to industrial property in the widest sense, including patents, marks, industrial designs, utility models (a kind of "small patent" provided for by the laws of some countries), trade names (designations under which an industrial or commercial activity is carried on), geographical indications (indications of source and appellations of origin) and the repression of unfair competition.

PATENTS

Treaties and Conventions

Patent Cooperation Treaty (PCT) and Regulations under the PCT done at Washington on June 19, 1970, amended on September 28, 1979, and modified on February 3, 1984; and on October 3, 2001 together with the Regulations as in force from April 1, 2007.

The Patent Cooperation Treaty makes it possible to seek patent protection for an invention simultaneously in each of a large number of countries by filing an “international” patent application. Such an application may be filed by anyone who is a national or a resident of a contracting State.

WIPO Patent Drafting Manual – Published in 2007

This Manual has been prepared in response to repeated demands from developing country Member States for capacity building in patent drafting due to the existing very low professional capacity in this area which is an obstacle to the utilization of the IP system by their nationals. The target audience for this Manual is primarily but not exclusively in developing countries and consists of scientists, researchers, technically trained persons and attorneys with a technical background who wish to draft patent applications. The Manual provides the necessary guidelines and an understanding of the skills needed for drafting a patent application, filing it and working with patent authorities to have it issued as a patent. The primary aim of this Manual is to assist all inventors in protecting their intellectual property through carefully crafted patent applications.

Classifications

International Patent Classification (IPC), Complete set Eighth Edition (2006) published in 2005

The International Patent Classification (IPC) is a system for the classification and retrieval of technical information contained in patent documents. In order to keep the IPC up to date, it is continuously revised and a new edition is regularly published. The eighth edition of the IPC entered into force on January 1, 2006. The Classification is indispensable for the retrieval of patent documents in the search for "prior art." Such retrieval is needed by patent-issuing authorities, potential inventors, research and development units, and others concerned with the application or development of technology. Weekly Published PCT Data (Bibliographic Data) through FTP site

This electronic product contains data published on the pamphlet front pages and in the section I, II and III of the PCT Gazette for all International Applications (IAs) published or republished in a given week. The data are in Latin characters in English, French, and where available also in German or Spanish as well as in Japanese characters.

Each weekly SPIDI publication includes:

1. a publication index file (i.e., a list of the international publication numbers of the IAs concerned for the publication week),
2. a parameter file (params.txt) which indicates the SPIDI parameters that were valid when the publication was processed. It includes for example the identification of the file that contains all the fixed texts that were used to compose the front pages of the pamphlet.
3. the Gazette XML files (Sections I to III) and bilingual Gazette PostScript files (Sections I to III); and
4. the drawing files with text matter, if any, in English, French and where available also in German, Spanish or Japanese, as well as XML, TIFF g4 and PostScript files for the front pages of the individual IAs included in the publication (both first publications and reissues).

The data is made available to subscribers through a FTP server, as from the morning of the publication date. The data are in Latin characters in English, French, and where available also in German or Spanish as well as in Japanese characters.

International Classification of Goods and Services for the Purposes of the Registration of Marks (Nice Classification), Bilingual versions – Ninth edition published in 2006

The Nice Classification consists of a classification of goods and services for the purposes of registering trademarks and service marks. The authentic bilingual versions of the Nice Classification include Class Headings accompanied by Explanatory Notes and a Bilingual (English-French and French-English) Alphabetical List of Goods and Services. The Class Headings describe in very broad terms the nature of the goods or services contained in each of the 34 classes of goods and 11 classes of services. They are accompanied, where appropriate, by Explanatory Notes which describe in greater detail the type of goods or services included in the classes concerned. The Bilingual Alphabetical List comprises around 10,100 indications of goods and 1,500 of services edited in English or French, with the equivalent indication in the other language and the number of the class to which each good or service belongs. In order to keep the Nice Classification up to date, it is continuously revised and a new edition is published every five years. The ninth edition has entered into force on January 1, 2007. This classification is also available on CD-ROM. For more information please refer to the NIMLO:CLASS CD (page 17).

INDUSTRIAL DESIGNS

Agreements

Hague Agreement Concerning the International Registration of Industrial Designs of November 6, 1925
 I. London Act (1934) • II. Hague Act (1960) • III. Additional Act of Monaco (1961) • IV. Complementary Act of Stockholm (1967) as amended on September 28, 1979 • V. Geneva Act (1999)
 Common Regulations and Administrative Instructions as in force on January 1, 2008.

The system of international registration of industrial designs is governed by this Agreement. The objectives of the system are two-fold. Firstly, it offers the possibility of obtaining protection for industrial designs in a number of States through a single deposit made with the International Bureau of WIPO. Secondly, by having a single registration with effect in several countries, the subsequent management of the protection obtained is also made much easier.

Seminario sobre Denominaciones de Origen: una Tradición Presente en el Umbral del Siglo XXI (Guadalajara, October 18-20, 1999)

This publication contains the documents of the Guadalajara Seminar on the legal protection of geographical indications and their commercial use in the present international trade environment. The Seminar was organized jointly by the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO), the Mexican Institute of Industrial Property (IMPI) and France's National Institute of Industrial Property (INPI). Geographical indications include appellations of origin in particular. The appellation of origin distinguishes and lends distinction to the goods that use it, as it denotes their special characteristics, backed up by proven quality and tradition. In recent times, public authorities and the production sectors of countries at various latitudes have substantially increased their recognition of the value of appellations of origin as a means of promoting their goods at the international level, and of the competitive advantages that they confer on producers, manufacturers, traders and exporters, both regional and local.

Principles of Copyright Law – Cases and Materials

Published in 2002

This publication aims to provide a valuable and practical tool for those countries where court decisions in the copyright domain are scarce or non-existent – either because copyright law is a fairly new phenomenon or because legislation has not been extensively applied. To that effect, this publication examines a carefully selected number of court decisions illustrating general principles of copyright law, drawn from common law, civil law and the legislative systems of Arab countries. As the basic principles illustrated here are to a large extent commonly shared, many of the cases presented have a wider relevance, going beyond the confines of the legal system of which they form part.

Collective Management of Copyright and Related Rights – By Mihály Ficsor – Published in 2002

After presenting the rationale and functions of collective management of copyright and related rights and other systems of joint exercise of rights (Chapter II) and the objectives and activities of WIPO in this field (Chapter III), the author describes the most typical forms of collective management and rights clearance (Chapter IV). The challenges raised by digital technology are tackled in Chapter V. The author then offers a brief thematic analysis of some general questions of collective management and other systems of joint exercise of rights (Chapter VI), followed by conclusions drawn in the 1990 study.

La gestion collective du droit d'auteur dans la vie musicale – By Dr. Ulrich Uchtenhagen – Published in 2005

Presented in the form of a theoretical and practical guide, this posthumous publication by the late Dr. Ulrich Uchtenhagen concerns the stages in the setting-up of a collective management society in the field of music and the society's operation. The work describes the essential activities and mechanisms as well as the fundamental principles required for sound collective management. It provides clear explanations of the complex notions of a system which is essential for authors, composers and music publishers throughout the world who seek protection and wish to be rewarded for their work.

Prices and Discounts

Prices are in Swiss francs and do not include the shipping charges. WIPO reserves the right to change the prices of its products at any time. WIPO publications are available at a discount for government units, universities, national libraries, and booksellers. These discounts are not applied to orders received through the ebookshop.

Shipping

WIPO offers two shipping options for the transportation of its products.

- The regular mail option costs 20% of the price of paper publications and 10% of the price of CDs.
- The priority mail option costs 40% of the price of paper publications and 20% of the price of CDs. This option is faster than regular mail and more reliable for some destinations.
- Clients who wish to use their own account with an express shipping company (such as Federal Express or DHL) may do so by providing WIPO with the shipping company name and their account number. These clients will be billed for the shipping costs according to the agreement they have with the shipping company. WIPO is in no way responsible or involved with the amount charged, and for any delays in the delivery.

Subscriptions

All WIPO journals have yearly subscriptions starting in January and ending in December. If a client decides to subscribe to a journal in the middle of the year, all the back issues for that year will be sent and the amount charged for the full year. No refunds are made for cancellations.

Standing Orders

Publications marked "Updated regularly" and "Updating Service" are considered standing orders. When customers order one of these publications, they are placed on a mailing list.

Returns Policy

Returns are permitted under the following conditions:

- Publications must be in resaleable condition.
- Publications must be returned within 60 days of the date of the invoice.
- A copy of the invoice/receipt must be enclosed.
- CD-ROMs can be returned for replacement only.
- All items must be returned at the customer's expense. We are not responsible for lost or damaged return shipments.
