

About the Author

As the Vice-Minister for International Affairs, Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI) of Japan, Hisamitsu Arai is responsible for shaping Japanese government policy on all international matters discussed at the World Trade Organization, the G7 (the Group of 7 Industrialized Nations), the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, and other international conferences.

From 1996 to 1998, he served as the Commissioner of the Japanese Patent Office and led the nation-wide discussions on intellectual property policy which, in April 1997, resulted in the Report of the Commission on Intellectual Property Rights in the 21st Century. During his more than 30 year career at MITI, he has occupied a number of positions such as Director General of International Economic Affairs Department (1991-1992), Director General of Public Utilities Department (1992-1993) and Director General of Machinery and Information Department (1993-1994). From 1990 to 1993, he led the Japanese Delegation in the negotiations leading to the TRIPS Agreement.

Since 1998, he has been a founding Member of WIPO Policy Advisory Commission and has provided advice on intellectual property issues to WIPO.

He received a Bachelor of Arts in Law from Tokyo University in 1966, as well as a Master in Public Administration in 1972 and a Master of Arts in Economics in 1973, both from Harvard University.

He is the author of three books in the field of intellectual property: Era of Patent Strategy ~Pro-Patent Big Bang~ (The Nikkan Kogyo Shimbun); Japan's New Era of Pro-Patent (Japan Institute of Invention and Innovation); and Patents Support Venture Business (Japan Institute of Invention and Innovation).
