

Comité du développement et de la propriété intellectuelle (CDIP)

Dix-septième session
Genève, 11 – 15 avril 2016

ÉTAT DES LIEUX DES ACTIVITÉS DE COOPÉRATION SUD-SUD AU SEIN DE L'ORGANISATION MONDIALE DE LA PROPRIÉTÉ INTELLECTUELLE

Document établi par le Bureau international de l'OMPI

1. À sa treizième session tenue en mai 2014, lors d'un échange de vues au sujet du résumé du rapport d'évaluation du projet de renforcement de la coopération Sud-Sud dans le domaine de la propriété intellectuelle au service du développement parmi les pays en développement et les pays les moins avancés (document CDIP/13/4), le Comité du développement et de la propriété intellectuelle (CDIP) a demandé au Secrétariat de dresser l'état des lieux des activités de coopération Sud-Sud au sein de l'Organisation Mondiale de la Propriété Intellectuelle (OMPI).

2. Conformément à cette demande, un état des lieux des activités de coopération Sud-Sud menées au sein de l'OMPI pendant l'exercice biennal 2014-2015 a été établi.

3. Le CDIP est invité à prendre note des informations figurant dans l'annexe du présent document.

[L'annexe suit]

I INTRODUCTION ET DÉFINITIONS

1. Le présent document a été établi en vue de donner aux États membres un aperçu des activités de développement relatives à la propriété intellectuelle menées par l'Organisation dans le cadre de la coopération Sud-Sud. Le bilan a été dressé conformément à une recommandation contenue dans une évaluation indépendante du projet de plan d'action pour le développement relatif au renforcement de la coopération Sud-Sud dans le domaine de la propriété intellectuelle au service du développement parmi les pays en développement et les pays les moins avancés (2012-2015), qui appelait à dresser un état des lieux des activités de coopération Sud-Sud au sein de l'OMPI¹.

2. L'évaluation indépendante du projet de plan d'action pour le développement relatif à la coopération Sud-Sud a confirmé la pertinence et l'importante valeur ajoutée potentielle de la coopération Sud-Sud pour les États membres et les bénéficiaires directs, ainsi que pour les priorités internationales. Elle soulignait que la coopération Sud-Sud, en complément de la coopération Nord-Sud, constituait "un moyen efficace de mettre à profit une expérience particulièrement utile au regard des défis particuliers auxquels sont confrontés les pays en développement et les PMA dans l'utilisation des systèmes de propriété intellectuelle aux fins de leur développement socioéconomique"².

3. Le Plan-cadre contenant des directives opérationnelles sur l'appui des Nations Unies à la coopération Sud-Sud donne la définition opérationnelle suivante de la coopération Sud-Sud : "processus par lequel deux ou plusieurs pays en développement visent leurs objectifs nationaux propres ou partagés de développement des capacités en échangeant les compétences, les ressources et le savoir-faire technique, et par des actions régionales et interrégionales collectives, y compris les partenariats mettant en jeu les gouvernements, les organisations régionales, la société civile, les universités et le secteur privé, pour leur avantage individuel ou mutuel dans les régions et entre elles. La coopération Sud-Sud ne remplace pas la coopération Nord-Sud, elle la complète"³.

4. De la même façon, la Conférence de haut niveau des Nations Unies sur la coopération Sud-Sud qui a eu lieu à Nairobi en décembre 2009 a réaffirmé que "la coopération Sud-Sud est une entreprise commune de peuples et pays du Sud, née d'expériences et de sympathies partagées, fondée sur des objectifs communs et sur la solidarité et régie, entre autres, par les principes de la souveraineté et de l'appropriation nationales, en l'absence de toute condition. La coopération Sud-Sud ne doit pas être envisagée comme une forme d'aide publique au développement. C'est un partenariat entre égaux fondé sur la solidarité"⁴.

II. LA COOPÉRATION SUD-SUD AU SEIN DE L'OMPI

5. Les approches en matière de coopération Sud-Sud visant à encourager les échanges entre les pays en développement et les pays les moins avancés dans le domaine de la propriété intellectuelle font depuis longtemps partie des activités de l'OMPI, même si elles n'ont jamais constitué une fin en soi⁵. Partant, il n'existe à ce sujet ni politique fondamentale, ni documents de stratégie, ni directives. La coopération Sud-Sud est mentionnée explicitement pour la première fois dans le programme et budget de l'OMPI pour l'exercice biennal 2016-2017, lorsqu'il est fait référence au programme 9 (Afrique, pays arabes, Asie et Pacifique, pays d'Amérique latine et des Caraïbes, pays les moins avancés) et au programme 20 (Relations extérieures, partenariats et bureaux extérieurs)⁶.

6. Guidé par les définitions de la coopération Sud-Sud données et acceptées au sein du système des Nations Unies, le Secrétariat de l'OMPI a revu, aux fins de cet état des lieux, ses activités pour le développement⁷ et défini celles qui, conformément aux principes mentionnés plus tôt et à son mandat, facilitent les échanges de savoir et de données d'expériences mutuellement avantageux entre les pays en développement et les pays les moins avancés, et encouragent l'innovation, la créativité et le recours effectif au système de propriété intellectuelle en vue du développement économique, technologique, social et culturel.

7. Dans le cadre des principes mentionnés au paragraphe 6 ci-dessus, l'état des lieux des activités de coopération Sud-Sud présenté dans l'appendice du présent document contient une liste des activités menées par l'Organisation, dont le(s) pays bénéficiaire(s) et le pays hôte ou fournisseur sont des pays en développement ou des pays de la catégorie des moins avancés, et dans le cadre desquelles tous ou la majorité des intervenants ou des experts viennent d'un pays en développement ou d'un pays de la catégorie des moins avancés.

8. Plusieurs activités menées par l'OMPI et financées au moyen de fonds fiduciaires provenant de pays en développement, en l'occurrence le Brésil et la République de Corée, figurent dans l'état des lieux. Les activités qui a) ont eu lieu au siège de l'OMPI, à Genève; b) ont eu lieu dans un pays développé; c) ont été financées par des pays développés, y compris au titre d'un fonds fiduciaire provenant de pays développés; d) ont eu lieu dans des pays en transition; e) ont été menées par un seul pays (activités nationales, dont les participants et les intervenants viennent du pays) ne figurent pas dans l'état des lieux⁸.

⁶ Voir le document intitulé Programme et budget pour l'exercice biennal 2016-2017, à la partie Programme 9, paragraphe 9.11, page 91 : "Compte tenu de l'importance croissante de la coopération sous-régionale, régionale et interrégionale, ainsi que de la coopération Sud-Sud, entre pays en développement, les bureaux régionaux joueront un rôle essentiel dans la coopération horizontale" et à la partie Programme 20, concernant le Bureau de l'OMPI au Brésil, paragraphe 20.15, page 168 : "Le Bureau de l'OMPI au Brésil administre deux fonds fiduciaires entre le Gouvernement brésilien et l'OMPI, qui visent notamment à promouvoir une culture de la propriété intellectuelle au sein des institutions et des utilisateurs nationaux et internationaux grâce à une coopération Sud-Sud entre les pays en développement à l'intérieur et à l'extérieur de la région Amérique latine".

9. Le présent état des lieux a été dressé à partir de la base de données de l'assistance technique de l'OMPI dans le domaine de la propriété intellectuelle (IP-TAD), dans laquelle figurent les informations requises sur les activités menées par l'Organisation au cours de l'exercice biennal 2014-2015⁹.

III. ÉTAT DES LIEUX DES ACTIVITÉS SUD-SUD

10. Cet état des lieux est la première initiative de l'OMPI visant à définir et à regrouper des activités qui, selon les définitions de la coopération Sud-Sud données par les Nations Unies et conformément au mandat de l'OMPI, peuvent être considérées comme un élément de la coopération Sud-Sud. Au total, 83 activités ont été recensées pour l'exercice biennal 2014-2015 compte tenu des principes liés à la coopération Sud-Sud mentionnés plus tôt.

11. Dans le cadre de cet état des lieux, les activités de coopération Sud-Sud ont été regroupées en neuf (9) domaines principaux de la propriété intellectuelle. Elles ont ensuite été classées par ordre chronologique.

12. Pour chaque activité recensée dans l'appendice, les informations suivantes sont fournies :

- date de l'activité;
- titre;
- objectif;
- résultat escompté;
- lieu/pays hôte;
- pays bénéficiaire(s);
- nombre de participants;
- langue(s) employée(s); et
- coût.

13. Il est rappelé que le Corps commun d'inspection des Nations Unies a recommandé que "les organes délibérants et les organes directeurs des organismes des Nations Unies devraient prier les chefs de secrétariat de consacrer un pourcentage précis – 0,5% au moins – des ressources budgétaires de base à la promotion de la coopération Sud-Sud dans leur domaine respectif de compétence, en concertation avec les pays de programme"¹⁰.

14. Les dépenses autres que les dépenses de personnel engagées dans le cadre de ces activités de coopération Sud-Sud s'élevaient à 3 513 085 francs suisses. Cette somme représentait 1,5% du total des dépenses autres que les dépenses de personnel pour l'exercice biennal 2014-2015.

⁹ La base de données de l'assistance technique dans le domaine de la propriété intellectuelle (IP-TAD) donne des informations sur les activités d'assistance technique de l'OMPI, dont au moins un bénéficiaire était un pays en développement, un pays de la catégorie des moins avancés ou un pays en transition. Aux fins de l'élaboration du présent document, la date butoir de recueil et d'analyse des données relatives aux activités de coopération Sud-Sud avait été fixée au 31 octobre 2015. La base de données consultable dans son intégralité est disponible à l'adresse suivante : <http://www.wipo.int/tad/en/>.

15. Les informations figurant dans l'appendice du présent document sont également disponibles sur la base de données de l'assistance technique Sud-Sud en matière de propriété intellectuelle <http://www.wipo.int/sscip/tad>.
