European Patent Office to Offer Supplementary International Search

The European Patent Office (EPO) has notified the International Bureau (IB) that, with effect from 1 July 2010, it will carry out supplementary international searches, and it will thus be possible for applicants to choose it as an Authority specified for Supplementary International Search (SISA).

New Annex SISA (EP) of the PCT Applicant's Guide, containing information on the EPO in its capacity as SISA, will be published shortly.

Important Information about Requesting that PCT Notifications be sent to the Applicant by E-mail

It is recalled that it is now possible to request, by indicating in Boxes II and IV of the request form (PCT/RO/101), that the International Bureau (IB) (as well any receiving Office, International Searching Authority or International Preliminary Examining Authority that is willing to do so) send copies of notifications either:

- by e-mail as advance copies followed by paper notifications, or
- exclusively by e-mail.

Note that such an indication can also be made in Boxes II and III of the demand for international preliminary examination (Form PCT/IPEA/401) and in Boxes II and III of the supplementary search request (Form PCT/IB/375).

It is important to note that, as far as notifications issued by the IB are concerned, if an international application is filed in respect of which the applicant has requested that notifications be sent exclusively by e-mail, all subsequently-filed international applications which include that same e-mail address will also be the subject of notifications sent exclusively by e-mail.

You are also reminded of the following information concerning this service to applicants:

(1) By “notifications”, it is meant everything that the IB would normally send to the applicant on paper, including invitations and the international preliminary report on patentability (Chapter I of the PCT) (Form PCT/IB/373). Examples of notifications/invitations sent by the IB, which generally carry the code PCT/IB/3.. are:

PCT/IB/301	Notification of Receipt of Record Copy
PCT/IB/304	Notification Concerning Submission or Transmittal of Priority Document
PCT/IB/306	Notification of the Recording of a Change
PCT/IB/307	Notification of Withdrawal of International Application or Designations
PCT/IB/308	Notice Informing the Applicant of the Communication of the International Application to Designated Offices (first and second and supplementary notices)
PCT/IB/311	Notification Concerning Availability of the Publication of the International Application

PCT/IB/313 Notification of Defects in the International Application

PCT/IB/314 Invitation to Request Rectification

The rest of the many PCT/IB forms that exist, which can be sent by e-mail if requested by the applicant, can be seen at:

<http://www.wipo.int/pct/en/forms/ib/index.html>

(2) For applicants who have not yet received notifications by e-mail from the IB, it is recommended, as a first step, to begin by requesting electronic “advance copies followed by paper copies” prior to opting to receive forms exclusively by e-mail. The second option of requesting notifications “exclusively in electronic form” (no paper notifications will be sent) should be used only once applicants have successfully received advance copies of notifications by e-mail from the IB and are satisfied with the electronic delivery to their given e-mail address, as validated by the subsequent receipt of the paper copy.

(3) Note that if “e-mail exclusively” is requested, the date of mailing indicated on the electronic copy will commence any time limit within the meaning of PCT Rule 80, whereas if “e-mail plus paper” is requested, the paper copy of the notification is considered the legal copy of the notification and only the date of mailing of that paper copy will commence any such time limit.

(4) Note that it is the applicant’s responsibility to keep any e-mail address details up-to-date and to ensure that incoming e-mails are not blocked for any reason on the recipient’s side. Please note that, in respect of any e-mails that do bounce back to the IB, the applicant will be informed and invited to supply a correct e-mail address. In the case of a change to the e-mail address indicated in the request, demand or supplementary search request, applicants should request the change to be recorded, preferably directly at the IB, under PCT Rule 92*bis*.

(5) Where the e-mail authorization is given both in respect of the applicant and in respect of an agent or common representative, the IB will send e-mail communications only to the appointed agent or common representative.

(6) So far, in addition to the IB, only the National Industrial Property Institute (Chile) and the Department of Intellectual Property (DIP) (Thailand) have informed the IB that they are prepared to send notifications to applicants in this way. The IB is not yet aware of any other receiving Office, International Searching Authority or International Preliminary Examining Authority which has indicated that it is willing to send notifications in this manner, although it is expected that more will be added to the list shortly.

Superintendence of Industry and Commerce (Colombia): Not Open for Business from 29 to 31 March 2010

The Superintendence of Industry and Commerce (Colombia) has informed the International Bureau under PCT Rule 80.5 that, due to the automation of its documents system, it was not open to the public for the purposes of the transaction of official business from Monday, 29 March to Wednesday, 31 March 2010, inclusive.

Consequently, pursuant to PCT Rule 80.5, if the expiration of any period during which any document or fee in connection with an international application was required to reach that Office fell on any of those days, that period was extended so as to expire on the next working day, that is, on Monday, 5 April 2010.

It is recalled that the International Bureau has published the closed dates in 2010 for a number of industrial property Offices. The full collection, which includes all years back to 2005, may be consulted at:

Release of new version of the PCT-SAFE Client software

A new version of the PCT-SAFE Client software (version 3.51.045.221, dated 1 April 2010, may now be downloaded from the PCT-SAFE website at:

http://www.wipo.int/pct-safe/en/download/download_client.htm

This version ("build 221") includes the following changes:

- January 2010 request form modifications relating to the e-mail authorization and the possibility to request the International Bureau to retrieve priority documents via the Digital Access Service (DAS). Please note that, for technical reasons, the priority document retrieval functionality is not yet available for the following receiving Offices: DE, DK, EP, ES, FI, GB, IS, MY, NL, PH, PL, RO, SE and SK (although it is recalled that, in any case, the DAS is currently available only for the receiving Offices of: AU, ES, GB, IB, JP, KR, US) – for information on alternative ways of requesting the IB to retrieve the priority document, see PCT Newsletter No. 02/2010, pages 4 and 5).

Saving PCT Forms in Editable PDF Format

It has come to our attention that some applicants have had problems saving their completed editable PDF forms, for example the request form (PCT/RO/101) and demand form (PCT/IPEA/401). Your attention is drawn to the detailed instructions for completing and printing editable PCT Forms in PDF format on our website, which are available, in English, French, German and Spanish, on the right hand side of the page at:

<http://www.wipo.int/pct/en/forms/index.htm>

Note, in particular, that opening the forms using Adobe Acrobat Reader will only allow you to fill in and print out the form, but not to save the completed form. You will only be able to save the completed form if you use Adobe Acrobat (which must be purchased—see <http://www.adobe.com>). Occasionally, users who have purchased this software have nevertheless encountered problems when they open, complete and try to save the document online. This seems to be due to the fact that they have not integrated their version of Adobe Acrobat into their web browser and their web browser is referring to the Adobe Acrobat Reader version of the software. To avoid this, it is recommended that you save the form locally (right click on the link and select “save target as” and then open it with the full Adobe Acrobat version of the software – you may then use and re-use this file as required, noting that the issue of new revisions to these editable forms are publicized well in advance in the PCT Newsletter).

Power of Attorney Waivers

Notification under PCT Rule 90.4(d) and 90.5(c) (European Patent Office)

Following the announcement by the European Patent Office (EPO) that, with effect from 1 July 2010, it will carry out supplementary international searches (see European Patent Office to Offer Supplementary International Search, above), it has modified the text of its power of attorney waiver, with effect from that date, to include its capacity as Supplementary International Searching Authority (SISA).

The EPO, in its capacities as receiving Office, International Searching Authority and International Preliminary Examining Authority, and, with effect from 1 July 2010, as SISA, has informed the International Bureau, having waived the requirement under PCT Rules 90.4(b) and 90.5(a)(ii) to submit a separate power of attorney and/or a copy of a general power of attorney, that the particular instances in which a separate power of attorney or a copy of a general power of attorney is required are as follows:

- where procedural acts are performed by a purported agent who is not the agent of record, unless the purported agent belongs to the same office as the agent of record, or if both the purported agent and the agent of record are employees of the applicant or, if there is more than one applicant, of the common representative; or
- in case of doubt as to the agent's or common representative's entitlement to act.

For background information on power of attorney waivers, see PCT Newsletter No. 01/2004, page 2. The table showing Offices (or Authorities) which have notified WIPO of waivers of the power of attorney requirement will be updated shortly at:

<http://www.wipo.int/pct/en/texts/waivers.html>

This will update the PCT Applicant's Guide, Annexes C (EP), D (EP) and E (EP), and will be included in Annex SISA (EP) once it is published.

Amendments to the Implementing Regulations to the European Patent Convention

A number of amendments have been made to the Implementing Regulations to the European Patent Convention with effect from 1 April 2010. The attention of applicants is drawn, in particular, to EPC Rule 161, which relates to the obligatory response after European phase entry to a written opinion drawn up by the European Patent Office (EPO) as International Searching Authority, or an International Preliminary Examination Report drawn up by the EPO as International Preliminary Examining Authority. Information on this, as well as other changes, can be seen on the EPO website at:

http://archive.epo.org/epo/pubs/oj009/11_09/11_5339.pdf

Note that the PCT Applicant's Guide has been revised accordingly (<http://www.wipo.int/pct/guide/en/index.html>). The attention of applicants is also drawn to the fact that a new version of Form F1200 (Entry into the European phase (EPO as designated or elected Office)) is now available on the EPO website at:

Practical Advice

Factors to be considered when deciding whether or not to file a demand for international preliminary examination (Views of David Reed, former Senior Patent Advisor, The Procter & Gamble Company, and current PCT Consultant).

Q: I have just received the international search report and the written opinion of the International Searching Authority. What should I consider when deciding whether to file a demand for international preliminary examination under PCT Chapter II?

A: International preliminary examination is an optional procedure under the PCT, and the decision whether or not to make use of it must be reviewed for each international application. Examples of different situations in which applicants may find themselves are:

- 1) the applicant receives the written opinion of the International Searching Authority (ISA) indicating that all claims appear to be novel, to involve an inventive step and to be industrially applicable. Additionally, the examiner has not noted any formality defects or other issues;
- 2) the applicant receives the written opinion of the ISA indicating that all claims appear to be novel, to involve an inventive step and to be industrially applicable; however, the examiner has noted one or more formality defects;
- 3) the applicant receives the written opinion of the ISA and the examiner has concluded that one or more of the claims lack novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability;

- 4) the applicant receives the written opinion of the ISA and the examiner has concluded that one or more of the claims lack novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability, but the information arrived late; or
- 5) the applicant does not receive an ISR or a written opinion of the ISA, but receives a declaration under PCT Article 17(2)(a) that no ISR will be established.

To give full consideration to all of these situations, this “Practical Advice” will be split over two issues of the PCT Newsletter. This issue will deal with a more positive ISR and written opinion of the ISA (situations (1) and (2)) and next month’s issue will deal with more negative situations (situations (3) to (5)).

Background on international preliminary examination

Regardless of whether a demand for international preliminary examination (hereinafter “demand”) is filed, the applicant will receive a written opinion of the ISA (see PCT Rule 43*bis*) which gives a preliminary, non-binding opinion on the novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability of the claimed invention as defined in PCT Article 33. Additionally, the written opinion of the ISA may also point out any formality defects or other issues the examiner discovers during the initial review (the extent of review for such matters is at the discretion of the examiner and varies between International Authorities). If the applicant decides not to file a demand for international preliminary examination, the International Bureau (IB) will attach a cover sheet to the written opinion of the ISA and issue it as the international preliminary report on patentability (Chapter I of the Patent Cooperation Treaty) (IPRP Chapter I) and send it to the designated Offices (DOs) for their use.

If, following a review of the prior art cited in the ISR and opinions and comments in the written opinion of the ISA, the applicant decides to take issue with these findings under the PCT, a demand for international preliminary examination (hereinafter “demand”) must be filed with the International Preliminary Examining Authority (IPEA), together with arguments and/or amendments, as well as payment of the requisite fees (PCT Rules 57 and 58). Alternatively, the applicant can submit informal comments in response to the ISA’s written opinion to the IB but these will neither be published nor sent to the ISA or to the IPEA, even if a demand is filed (if the applicant wants the IPEA to consider his previously-filed “informal comments”, he/she will have to re-submit them directly to the IPEA). The informal comments will simply be kept in the file of the international application and, in the case where no demand is filed, forwarded to the DOs.

The deadline for filing a demand is three months from the date of transmittal to the applicant of the ISR (or the declaration referred to in PCT Article 17(2)(a)), and of the written opinion, or 22 months from the priority date, whichever expires later. In addition to allowing applicants to formally respond to an unfavorable written opinion, filing a demand also allows them to amend the description, claims and/or drawings under PCT Article 34(2)(b).

The outcome of this procedure is the issuance of an international preliminary examination report (IPER) (entitled “international preliminary report on patentability (Chapter II of the Patent Cooperation Treaty) (IPRP Chapter II)”) by the IPEA examiner, which will be sent by the IB to the elected Offices (EOs) for their use.

As indicated earlier, the decision to file a demand must be made for each international application, and a primary consideration, before doing so, is whether or not the value an applicant expects to receive from the procedure justifies the time and expense required.

The cost of filing a demand varies depending on the IPEA used by the applicant. The IPEA available for use is determined by the applicant's receiving Office (RO), and, in some cases, which Office acted as ISA, and an applicant may have the choice of more than one IPEA. Two fees are due for filing a demand: an examination fee, which covers the costs incurred during the examination procedure, and a handling fee which offsets the IB's cost of translating and distributing the IPER. The overall cost of the procedure consists of these fees plus the applicant's or agent's time to prepare and submit the arguments in response to the written opinion and/or amendments. It is this total cost that must be weighed against the benefits received from obtaining an IPER when deciding whether to use this procedure.

1) The applicant receives the written opinion of the ISA indicating that all claims appear to be novel, to involve an inventive step and to be industrially applicable. Additionally, the examiner has not noted any formality defects or other issues.

In this situation, the searching examiner has neither discovered any prior art that negatively impacts the novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability of the claimed invention, nor found any formality defects. The written opinion of the ISA is "positive" in all aspects and the final IPRP Chapter I will show that the claimed invention meets these three generally accepted criteria for patentability (as set forth in PCT Article 33).

Unless case-specific circumstances require the applicant to amend one or more parts of the application, there is little value to be obtained from filing a demand, given that the only remaining States where this still extends the period for entering the national phase are ones also covered by regional systems where the time limit is at least 30 months whether a demand is filed or not. In fact, if a demand is filed without the applicant submitting arguments and/or amendments to the application, the written opinion of the ISA will, typically, simply be re-issued in the form of an IPER. The IPRP Chapter I will convey the positive findings to all DOs/EOs and the national examiners can take these findings into consideration during national examination and the applicant will receive whatever benefits are given by each national office in light of a positive IPRP Chapter I. It is recalled that, in the case of PCT applications that have received a positive written opinion of either the ISA or the IPEA, or an IPER from the European Patent Office, the Japan Patent Office or the United States Patent and Trademark Office, patent examination procedures in the national phase before those Offices can be fast-tracked under the Trilateral PCT-Patent Prosecution Highway (PCT-PPH), the pilot of which started in January 2010 and is planned to run for two years (see PCT Newsletter Nos. 12/2009, cover page, and 02/2010, page 2, for further information). Other Offices, such as the United Kingdom Intellectual Property Office (an operating name of the Patent Office), are also expected to offer this accelerated processing in the near future.

2) The applicant receives the written opinion of the ISA indicating that all claims appear to be novel, to involve an inventive step and to be industrially applicable; however, the examiner has noted one or more formality defects.

Under the PCT, all national (or regional) offices are required to accept the formal requirements set out under the PCT. An office may apply a standard different from the requirements under the PCT only if the national standard is more favorable to the applicant. It is recalled that the receiving Office only objects to formalities defects if compliance "is necessary for the purpose of reasonably uniform international publication". Similarly, some designated Offices may not be concerned by some of the requirements of PCT Rule 11 and will either not include the relevant requirements in their law, or else not enforce them.

In this situation, the search examiner has concluded that the claimed invention satisfies the criteria under PCT Article 33, but there are formal defects that need correcting. The applicant must look at the formal defects raised and decide:

- a) whether correction of the formal defects will be required by the national offices of interest during the national phase; and
- b) whether it is more cost effective or strategically viable to make the correction once under Chapter II or to make the correction before each office upon national phase entry.

The answer to the question will depend on the nature of the formality defect noted and the States in which it is intended to enter the national phase. In most cases, perhaps the formality defect would better be corrected by preliminary amendment when entering the national phase and there may be little value in making the correction under Chapter II. This will especially be so if you will be relying on translations in most States rather than the original language of the international application. Each case should be individually examined and either the most cost-effective route should be used to make any corrections that will be required during national processing, or the route which best suits the problem strategically. For example, it may be more beneficial for the applicant to fix certain issues earlier during the international phase, rather than before the designated Offices during the national phase, where, in the case of certain countries, addressing these issues may be more cumbersome or else it is particularly beneficial to enter the national phase with a "clean" report. In such a case, even if the issue relates only to a limited number of Offices, and even if it adds some costs to the procedure as a whole, it might be worthwhile filing a demand.

This "Practical Advice" will be continued in next month's issue of the PCT Newsletter with information and advice relating to situations 3 to 5, above.

PCT Fee Tables

(amounts on 1 April 2010, unless otherwise indicated)

The following Tables show the amounts and currencies of the main PCT fees which are payable to the receiving Offices (ROs) and the International Preliminary Examining Authorities (IPEAs) during the international phase under Chapter I (Tables I(a) and I(b)) and under Chapter II (Table II). Fees which are payable only in particular circumstances are not shown; nor are details of certain reductions and refunds which may be available; such information can be found in the PCT Applicant's Guide, Annexes C, D and E. Note that all amounts are subject to change due to variations in the fees themselves or fluctuations in exchange rates. The international filing fee may be reduced by CHF 100, 200 or 300 where the international application, or part of the international application, is filed in electronic form, as prescribed under Item 4(a), (b), (c) and (d) of the Schedule of Fees (annexed to the Regulations under the PCT) and the PCT Applicant's Guide, paragraph 202(A). A 90% reduction in the international filing fee (including the fee per sheet over 30) and the handling fee, as well as an exemption from the transmittal fee payable to the International Bureau as receiving Office, is also available to applicants from certain States—see footnotes 2 and 13. (Note that if the CHF 100, 200 or 300 reduction, as the case may be, and the 90% reduction are applicable, the 90% reduction is calculated after the CHF 100, 200 or 300 reduction.) The footnotes to the Fee Tables follow Table II.

1 Extension of European patent possible; in the case of Albania, only for international applications filed before 1 May 2010.

2 May only be designated for a regional patent (the "national route" via the PCT has been closed).

3 Only international applications filed on or after 1 January 2008 include the designation of this State for a European patent.

4 Only international applications filed on or after 24 March 2010 include the designation of this State for an ARIPO patent.

5 Only international applications filed on or after 1 January 2009 include the designation of this State for a European patent.

6 Only international applications filed on or after 1 July 2009 include the designation of this State for a European patent.

Where a State can be designated for a regional patent, the two-letter code for the regional patent concerned is indicated in parentheses (AP = ARIPO patent, EA = Eurasian patent, EP = European patent, OA = OAPI patent).

Important: This list includes all States that have adhered to the PCT by the date shown in the heading. Any State indicated in bold italics has adhered to the PCT but will only become bound by the PCT on the date shown in parentheses; it will not be considered to have been designated in international applications filed before that date.

Note that even though the filing of a request constitutes under PCT Rule 4.9(a) the designation of all Contracting States bound by the PCT on the international filing date, for the grant of every kind of protection available and, where applicable, for the grant of both regional and national patents, applicants should always use the latest versions of the request form (PCT/RO/101) and demand form (PCT/IPEA/401) (the latest versions are dated January 2010) or, if filing the request using the PCT-EASY features of the PCT-SAFE software, the latest version of that software (which is available at: <http://www.wipo.int/pct-safe/en/>). The request and demand forms can be printed from the website, in editable PDF format, at: <http://www.wipo.int/pct/en/forms/>, or obtained from receiving Offices or the International Bureau, or, in the case of the demand form, also from International Preliminary Examining Authorities.
