

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER 1

BRANDING IN THE GLOBAL ECONOMY

1.1.

TRADEMARKS AND ADVERTISING THROUGH HISTORY, AND RECENT TRENDS	23
---	----

1.2.

INCREASED IMPORTANCE OF BRANDS TO COMPANIES OPERATING IN THE GLOBAL ECONOMY	26
1.2.1 Increased investment in brands	28
1.2.2 The value of the leading brands is considerable and is on the increase	40

1.3

THE GLOBAL SURGE IN TRADEMARK FILINGS AND ITS MAIN DRIVERS	46
1.3.1 The demand for trademarks has grown substantially in absolute terms, and in proportion to economic activity	47
1.3.2 Main drivers of growth in trademark applications	53

1.4

THE RISE OF MARKETS FOR BRANDS	61
1.4.1 What are markets for brands and why do companies use them?	62
1.4.2 Putting numbers on markets for brands: not so easy...	64

1.5

CONCLUSIONS AND DIRECTIONS FOR FUTURE RESEARCH	74
REFERENCES	77

CHAPTER 2

THE ECONOMICS OF TRADEMARKS

2.1

THE RATIONALE FOR PROTECTING TRADEMARKS	81
2.1.1 How trademarks reduce consumers' search costs	82
2.1.2 How trademarks compare to other intellectual property rights	84

2.2

TRADEMARK COUNTERFEITING	88
2.2.1 Deceptive counterfeiting	89
2.2.2 Non-deceptive counterfeiting	90
2.2.3 Economy-wide effects	92

2.3

CHOICES IN DESIGNING TRADEMARK LAWS AND INSTITUTIONS	93
2.3.1 Designing trademark laws	93
2.3.2 Designing trademark institutions	95

2.4

CONCLUSIONS AND DIRECTIONS FOR FUTURE RESEARCH	106
REFERENCES	108

CHAPTER 3

BRANDING, INNOVATION, AND COMPETITION

3.1

CONCEPTUAL CONSIDERATIONS	109
3.1.1 How competition affects innovation	109
3.1.2 Why does branding matter?	113

3.2

BRANDING AND PROMOTING INNOVATION	117
3.2.1 Helping firms appropriate their returns to innovation	117
3.2.2 Branding based on product versus image	122
3.2.3 Branding activities that may raise competition concerns	126

3.3

SAFEGUARDING COMPETITION	127
3.3.1 Assessing firms' market power	128
3.3.2 The case of vertical arrangements	132

3.4

CONCLUSIONS AND DIRECTIONS FOR FUTURE RESEARCH	135
REFERENCES	137
ACRONYMS	139