

As a UDRP provider, FORUM appreciates the significant contributions made by all participants involved in this important project. Identifying and articulating the key issues ahead of a formal ICANN review is a vital step toward ensuring a thoughtful and efficient review process.

While we commend the effort and depth of analysis reflected in the report, FORUM—consistent with its role as a neutral administrative service provider—must refrain from offering detailed feedback on many of the substantive issues raised. Decisions regarding potential substantive changes to the UDRP rightly rest with the broader Internet community.

FORUM looks forward to participating in the formal ICANN review, where we will contribute insights from a procedural and implementation-oriented perspective.

We thank all contributors and commenters for their engagement and dedication. We are committed to supporting the continued evolution of the UDRP and look forward to what lies ahead.