

Paul Davey
Group Director Intellectual Property
Vodafone Group.

Age 48 years.

Paul has been challenged by Vodafone to engage the business in all aspects of the commercial value of Intellectual Property creation management and exploitation.

Having studied all aspects of the ways that IPR impacts the global mobile telecommunications industry Paul has initiated and led the Vodafone IPR interventions at ETSI in order to raise the profile of the IPR issues.

Paul brings a pragmatic business focus to the commercial impact of legal, regulatory and standards facets of current IPR regimes.

Paul has a broad experience of business growth and development in the Technology Media and Telecommunications markets globally and as such has significant background of the exploitation of Intellectual Property as a commercial basis for many types of business.

Paul has held senior business / corporate development positions for companies including;

Digital Equipment Corporation
Tandem Computers
Compaq Computer
Sony Corporation
Vodafone Group

In 1999, Paul led a management team that spun a Virtual Network Operator business out of Sony. The business drove forward the interactive broadcast TV market in UK providing the first in-line interactive TV advertising services to major UK broadcasters.

Paul is married with 2 teenage daughters, in his spare time Paul has a passion for Skiing and fine wine. He also holds a private pilots licence.
